Complaint Against New Railroad Bridge Filed

RODESCH HOLDS PIERS WILL BE DAM, STOP ICE

Files Formal Complaint with Officials of Railroad Co.

Robert A. Rodesch of this city, has entered formal complaint against the erection of the new Illinois Central bridge across Rock river at this point and has served notice on the officials of the company. Mr. Rodesch contends that the new bridge will place a portion of the city in danger of flood each year. As a protective measure he says, he served notice on the officials of the Illinois Central several days ago stating that any damage by flood to his property would bring about damage proceedings. He has received an answer to his notice from Vice President L. M. Bollman, who states that the matter will be given immediate attention.

Says Piers Are Too Close.

Mr. Rodesch contends in his notice that the piers of the new bridge are built too close together to insure safety from flood in the spring of the year when the ice goes out. The piers are alternately 40 and 80 feet apart, which he claims, does not provide ample clearance for the ice floes. The piers under the Galena avenue bridge are approximately 125 feet apart and beneath the old railroad bridge the piers are set approximately 150 feet apart, he says. Mr. Rodesch maintains that probably not every spring, but at seasons when the ice is heavy and starts out early, the piers of the new bridge will serve as a dam, holding back and jorging the ice. It is his claim that this will cause damaging floods in the down town section and on both sides of the river. He has also notified the city council of his action and requested that they enter similar complaint. The city officials have received a communication from the United States Engineer's department, asking if the city has any complaint to register against the erection of a new bridge at this point. This communication has been answered and several engineers from the head offices of the railroad company have been in the city looking over the situation.

Bridge Foreman Hurt in Fall Between Ties

Frank Lenahan, a foreman for the Bates & Rogers construction company who are building the new Illinois Central bridge, received painful injuries Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock, which necessitated his removal to the hospital, where he is receiving attention. Mr. Lenahan was overseeing some work on the false work across the river when he missed his footing and fell between the ties of the track. He fell on his right side, sustaining painful injuries which will necessitate an X-ray examination to determine their extent. It is feared that some of his ribs were fractured in the fall aside from painful bruises he received.

FOUND STILL HIDDEN IN BRANCHES OF TREE NEAR CEMENT WORKS

Workmen Make Unusual Discovery—Still Found at Sterling.

Stills have been captured in cellars, sub-cellars, basements, attics and other out of the way places, but as far as is known Lee county holds the record for an altitude still. A few days ago while workmen were clearing a piece of ground on the property of the Sandusky cement company on the Daysville road, it was necessary to fell a big tree and in the top of this same tree was a still or the equipment required to make one.

How it came to be there and to whom it belonged, is not known. The matter was reported to the sheriff's office and is being investigated. There was no mash in tank but there was evidence that it had been used for the purpose of turning out moonshine. The sheriff believes that parties who were in fear of being raided and losing this piece of valuable property, hid it in the top of the tree until it could be moved to some other more obscure locality.

FIND STILL AT STERLING

Whiteside county officers, headed by Sheriff Whitney, acting on information given them by Chief of Police J. G. Haglock of Sterling, Saturday evening raided an illicit still on an island in Rock river west of the Sterling Ave. G. bridge and Bert Elgin a clammer who has been living on the island is being held. Elgin claims he knows nothing about the still.

Elgin was nabbed as he was alighting from a row boat on the Sterling side of the river and was held under $2000 bonds for preliminary hearing.

Robbers Stole $500 in Bonds and Jewels from St. James Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wedeking, south of St. James on the Chicago road, was entered late yesterday afternoon and thoroughly ransacked. Liberty bonds and jewelry valued at about $500 being taken. Mr. and Mrs. Wedeking came to Dixon about 5 o'clock in the afternoon on an errand, returning home about an hour later.

Upon their return they found that a hole had been cut through the screen on the door. Two Liberty bonds, of one hundred and two hundred denominations, a valuable Swiss movement wrist watch and a gold watch fob, bearing the initials, "C. B." were missing. The matter was reported to the police who are investigating.

Will Stop Throwing of Creosoted Blocks for Bridge Into River

Thoroughly angered by the malice-motivated with which some one or more parties have continued to throw creosoted planks and blocks for the bridge repairs into the stream during the hours of the night when there is no guard on the bridge and pedestrians are few, Contractor Shons has offered a reward of $50 for apprehension of the guilty ones. Almost every morning recently workmen have discovered that blocks and planks have been thrown overboard from the piles on the bridge.

VILLA CHEERED BY THROUGHS, LED ARMY SURRENDER MONDAY

Bandit Says He Quit to Avoid Intervention By United States.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
San Pedro, Coahuila, Mex., Aug. 10. (Via Laredo Junction)—(By Associated Press)—Francisco Villa marched into San Pedro Monday night between the lines of a populace which greeted him with cheers of "Viva Villa." Behind him came his band of faithful followers, who with their leader surrendered to the De La Huerta government under terms agreed upon recently at Salinas.

As he drew up before the main plaza of the Mexican town a cheering throng of 3,000 gathered around him, the chieftain indicating that he was about to speak to them.

"I surrendered," he said, "because further fighting in Mexico meant intervention by the United States.

Preserves Nationality.
"They call me a bandit. They call me the worst man in the Mexico, but I would preserve our nationality by avoiding intervention."

There were 900 men in the band which Villa led into San Pedro, all of whom later pitched camp close by this little town after a 24-hour march across desert without water for man or beast.

Villa's entrance into San Pedro marked the first time in ten years of revolution that the bandit leader had neared a city without a plan of conquest or as hunted fugitive.

He was greeted and embraced by Generals who two weeks ago were leading thousands of soldiers in an attempt to capture him.

In Friendly Mood.

In turn the bandit leader embraced his former enemies and later in conversation with the Associated Press correspondent declared he was in a mood where I would like to embrace my worst enemies."

Villa, it is understood will rest here for a couple of days and then proceed to Gomez-Palacio to collect the year's pay for his men, promised by the De La Huerta government, later to take up farming in Durango.

He promises a manifesto to the people tomorrow.

Archbishop Landed in London This Morn

London, Aug. 10. — Archbishop Daniel J. Mannix, of Australia, who was landed yesterday at Penzance by a British destroyer which had taken him from on board the White Star liner Baltic off the Irish coast, arrived here at 5 o'clock this morning. There were only a few reporters and a handful of priests present to greet the archbishop, but a heavy police guard was maintained about the station.

"I am a man of peace," he said, "and I would like to embrace my worst enemies."

Villa, it is understood will rest here for a couple of days and then proceed to Gomez-Palacio to collect the year's pay for his men, promised by the De La Huerta government, later to take up farming in Durango.

MASTER MAGICIAN TO ENTERTAIN THIS EVE WITH UNIQUE PROGRAM

Davis, Man of Mystery, is on Assembly Program This Evening.

TOMORROW.
9:30 a. m.—Devotional Service.
10:30 a. m.—"Economic Factors", Mrs. Hallie L. Hill.
2:30 p. m.—"In France With the A. E. F." Miss Katherine M. Porter.
4:00 p. m.—"The Missionary Message of the New Testament", Mrs. Hallie L. Hill.
7:30 p. m.—Reading and Impersonations, Margarette Josephine Penick.
8:30 p. m.—Davis, the Master Magician.

By John H. Byers.
Assembly patrons will be entertained with magic tonight, and Davis will be the entertainer.

Davis has one strange thing after another. People love magic. They love the mysterious things about magic. Davis is recognized as one of the best magicians in the work. Everybody loves a good performance of magic and mystery. Davis is master of mystery. Davis has a line of talk that is nearly all humor. His monologue is great. He really says something while his tricks are being unfolded. Sometimes, it is said, he makes folks laugh so hard they can't see just how the tricks are performed. The average citizen likes to be fooled, if it is done artistically. Davis, the magician, doesn't claim that he is a super-man. He merely pretends to be what he is—a master artist in making his patrons think they see what they do not. His deft hands move more quickly than the eyes of his hearers.

His trunk stunts is one of the best ever seen in Dixon.

TWO STATES TO TAKE ACTION ON SUFFRAGE ISSUE

Tennessee and North Carolina Assemblies in Session.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 10.—Suffrage advocates were hopeful that first steps looking to ratification of the woman suffrage amendment would be taken today by the Tennessee legislature.

Both houses were to convene at 10 o'clock.

A telegram from Governor Cox, Democratic presidential nominee urging ratification was received today by Miss Charl Williams, of Memphis, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee and chairman of the woman's general ratification committee.

Two legislators favorable to suffrage, whose health was such that they were unable to come to Nashville alone, arrived last night to vote for ratification.

"If I live, I'm going to be up there to vote for that amendment," said R. L. Dowlen, of Ashland City as he was lifted from the car and carried to his room.

80,000 EXPRESSMEN AWARDED 16 CENTS AN HOUR INCREASE TODAY

Railroad Labor Board in Decision—Retroactive to May 1.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 10.—Thirty million dollars today was added to the nation's express bill when the United States railway labor board award, the 80,000 employees of the American Railway Express company an increase of 16 cents an hour.

The decision is retroactive to May 1, 1920.

Under the terms of the Esch-Cummins transportation act, the express company will be permitted to raise its rates sufficiently to meet the increased labor cost. Arguments in the rate case already have been presented before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. Today's award does not go into the question of rules and working conditions. As was the case last month, when the board granted a $600,000,000 increase to rail way employees, it was announced that a decision covering new working rules would be handed down later.

The express decision applies to all express employees with the exception of 2500 shopmen who were given a 13 cents an hour increase on the railway award last month.

The increase will give messengers and other train service employees an increase of $35.40 a month. All other employees will receive an increase of $32.64.

Train service employees work on a 240 hour month basis while all other employees work on a 204 hour basis.

First—That it was impracticable and unnecessary to send allied troops to Poland.

Second—The integrity of Poland's western frontier was guaranteed (this palpably means any effort by Germany to use the present crisis in an attempt to regain territory ceded Poland would be decisively negated by the allies).

Third—That blockade measures against Russia might possibly be taken later.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Aug. 10.—Members of the Polish government are reluctant to leave Warsaw as a dispatch from the Polish capital to the London Times. The danger for the Poles, the dispatch intimates, lies largely in a lack of organization and the existence of rivalries between various factions. "The national spirit of the Poles cannot be repressed," remarks the correspondent, "but they do not appear to understand that patriotism means subordination of self or party to the common welfare."

Today's Market Report

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.)

Wheat Higher, Oats and Corn Recovered

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Wheat advanced sharply today after a hesitating start. The action of the market appeared to be based to a considerable extent on opinions that government crop report was bullish on wheat although bearish on corn and oats. Besides uncertainty continued as to possible renewal of the war fear. Opening quotations which varied from unchanged figures to 1 1/2¢ lower, with December 2.31 to 2.32 and March 2.35 were followed by a decided upturn all around.

Liberal offerings weakened the corn market at the outset, but they were absorbed quickly by leading commission houses, and a recovery ensued. After opening 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ lower, including Sept. 1.41 1/2 and Dec. 1.21 1/2 to 1.22 1/2, they reacted in some cases to above yesterday's finish.

Oats reflected the changes in corn. The market opened unchanged to 1/4¢ lower, Sept. 70 1/2¢ to 70 3/4¢ and later scored slight gains.

Provisions were weak with hogs.

THERE'S NOTHING IN A NAME!

Selecting a team of mermaids to represent this country at Antwerp was a delicate matter. For if Ameri- ca has anything to brag of it's her girl swimmers.

The balmy Pacific coast, with its long beach season, and the Atlantic ocean sprays in the east with the Great Lakes sandwiched in between for training fields, our fair girl swim- mers are countless.

But the selection of our water nymphs reveals the fact that our best swimmers have very feminine names.

For instance, there are three Hel- ens, two Irenes and two Aileens on the team. Besides these, other names run thusly: Frances, Thelma, Betty, Ethel, Eleanor, Charlotte and Margaret. It sounds like they were the kind who would enjoy walking up and down the beaches without going near the ocean sprays.

But what's in a name? Absolutely nothing in this case, for they're all record holders of some kind in the mermaid art.

Miss Moses is a Honolulu girl. She's a sprinter. Miss Payne learned to do fancy dives at Portland, Ore. Miss Allen is a Los Angeles girl. She's pay- ing her own expenses over with the Olympic girls and she has excellent form in diving. Miss Meany is a New Yorker. She dives beautifully.

But the real champion of the en- tire galaxy of water performers is the 13-year-old Aileen Riggins. Even her name is poetical. Her weight is but the tiny sum of 75 pounds. Yet Aileen is wonderful. They call her "the little girl with the perfect form in the water."

Her smile wins every one and after watching her gracefully leap from the springboard, it is to thrill, for she is Aileen—the wonder and the won- derful.

kesha, Wis., motored to Dixon Sunday and will visit with Dixon relatives.

SURPRISED NEWLYWEDS—

Miss Frances Dorer was hostess at a delightful party given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Starks of East Seventh street. The occasion being in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Groat, who have recent- ly returned from their wedding trip.

The bride and groom had been invited to the Starks home for the evening and when they arrived found in wait- ing the employees of the Woolworth store and friends to the number of fifteen. The couple were given a good shower of rice after which all were in- troduced to the bride and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed. A de- licious lunch was served by the host- ess and her sister, Mrs. Starks. The decorations of pink and white being carried throughout the room, pink and white streamers were caught to the light by a white bell and suspended to the table. A couple of cupid dolls dressed as a bride and groom marked the places for the bride and groom. The centerpiece was a mysterious package nicely wrapped in pink and after the lunch this package was pre- sented to the couple who found it con- tained a handsome silver basket pre- sented them by the company of friends. Four candles also added to the table appointments.

Several toasts were given during the evening among them being one from the groom, Mr. Groat, and Mr. Goodwin. Miss Dorer also gave a farewell talk, as she is leaving the Woolworth store Saturday. Mrs. Groat also favored with a vocal solo. The guests departed at a late hour, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Groat a pros- perous wedded life and voting Miss Dorer a royal entertainer.

The woman who has to go into the kitchen in her best suit skirt is sure to find a perfectly unexplainable grease spot lurking on the front breadth.

I have found this cleaning fluid especially good for such spots as it leaves no ring:

- 1 pint deodorized benzine.
- 1-16 ounce bay rum
- 1-16 ounce ammonia.
- 1-16 ounce ether
- 1-6 ounce oil wintergreen.
- 1/2 ounce alcohol.
- 1/2 teaspoon borax.

A bottle of this cleaner kept in a convenient place will mean a saving in cleaning bills.

Menu for Tomorrow.

BREAKFAST.—Sliced peaches, scrambled eggs, baking powder bis- cuits, coffee.

LUNCHEON.—Pear salad, brown bread and butter sandwiches, iced tea.

DINNER.—Broiled whitefish, shoe string potatoes, cucumber salad, peach tapioca, coffee.

My Own Recipes.

While fruits and vegetables are in season use them freely. A certain de- gree of care must be taken that the fruit is not over ripe or green. If the day is unusually hot, substitute a fruit ice for the hot pudding in the dinner menu.

PEAR SALAD.

- 4 pears.
- 1 package cream cheese.
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts.
- Preserved cherries.
- Pare pears and remove core, scoop- ing from blossom end. Work cheese, nuts and cherries into a smooth paste. Fill the pears with the mixture. Ar- range on lettuce, cover with mayon- naise, put a spoonful of whipped cream on top and add a whole cherry.

PEACH TAPIOCA.

- 4 large peaches.
- 1/2 cup sugar.
- Butter.
- 1-3 cup minute tapioca.
- 1/2 teaspoon salt.
- 2 cups boiling water.
- Cook tapioca with salt in boiling water in double boiler for fifteen min- utes. Pare peaches, cut in halves and

Largest Co-operative Organization Farmers Formed in Nebraska

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Lincoln, Neb.,—What is said to be the largest co-operative organiza- tion of farmers in the United States has just been formed here. It will market the grain of the 40,000 mem- bers of the Nebraska Farmers' Union and eliminate middlemen and brokers.

The organization known as the Na- tional Co-operative company with a capital authorized at $2,000,000, ac- cording to C. H. Gustafson, of Lincoln, president of the state union and or- ganizer and president of the company, has 1,500 locals, 300 grain elevators, 50 general stores, three creameries and two flour mills besides nearly a hundred shipping associations.

The union also has a live-stock commission office in the yards of Omaha, Sioux City, St. Joseph and Denver, and a big wholesale exchange in Omaha that carries everything from farm implements to groceries to supply its retail stores.

The corporation, Mr. Gustafson said, expects soon to build or lease a big terminal elevator in Lincoln or Omaha and negotiations are in progress for seats on the Lincoln and the Omaha grain exchanges.

A regular commission will be con- ducted for local companies partici- pating, Mr. Gustafson said, and net profits will be pro-rated on the basis of business done, after the company pays eight per cent dividends on its stock.

The corporation also plans to find a market for all farm products, to lo- cate and build elevators and to give technical assistance in bookkeeping and accounting methods to partici- pating members.

CRIMINAL YOUTH.

In New York City 1500 boys and girls under 16 get into court every year as delinquent. A medical investigator, Dr. Sanger Brown, has tried to find out why, and he shows how easy it is for a child to become a criminal if there is anything about him that makes it hard for him to fit in with others.

To have "got in bad" with parents or teachers or to feel disgraced before his natural playmates easily drives a boy to the companionship of other "outlaws," and when he is once in such a gang at odds with the world about it, it is easy for rather innocent mischief to lead on to serious offenses, as petty thieving may lead to burglary.

But what gets a child "in bad" in the first place?

A third of Dr. Brown's cases had nervous symptoms—they were sleepwalkers, overactive, listless or emotionally unstable. Often there was a pressure of activity which kept them wearing themselves out. Or they were irritable and quarrelsome. Or they had fears and anxieties, and perhaps they stammered. Or possibly they had merely been kept from learning how to play with other children, or there was something about their clothes or their homes and parents that they were ashamed of.

Anything that makes a child a laughing stock or a nuisance in a school where things have to go by rule, anything which makes him over-sensitive, is enough to destroy his self-respect; and when that is gone he feels that he may as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb, and is glad to be with others as bad as himself, who will not despise him.

The way to treat such delinquents is to find and remove the cause of the original nervousness or whatever it may be that makes them seem "different" and to restore their self-respect.

WASTE PAPER.

One can do his bit in saving the trees, the basis for the pulp wood that goes into the manufacture of newsprint, by saving the waste paper that accumulates around his home. And, instead of burning it, selling it. For the ragman, these days, is paying good prices for paper waste.

The shortage in newsprint, that has run up the price so that when it can be purchased at all it is at a rate perhaps 400 per cent higher than a few years ago, is such that many of the smaller newspapers of the country have been forced to suspend.

More than two million tons of waste paper are used annually for boxes and shipping containers. This use of waste paper saves over a billion feet of lumber.

In an appeal to the public—the housewife and the business man—to save paper, Secretary of Commerce Alexander says that many of our better grades of waste paper are used as pure substitutes for ground wood-pulp and are used in making all kinds of book, bond, ledger and writing papers.

WIGGLY WORM'S TRICK.

"No," said Wiggly Worm to Mr. Tingaling, the fairyman landlord, "I don't expect you to rent me a brand-new apple-house in May, but I don't think you ought to expect much rent for an old, last year's apple like the one I am living in now. Mr. Ant, what do you think about it?"

Mr. Ant, who had stopped in for a mug of cider and nibble of apple-seed cake, looked very wise. "Well," said he gazing around the walls and puzzled way, "It's a bit queer," he said, "but it sounds fair enough. Here you are, Wiggly. Here's he said, 'but it sounds fair enough. Here you are, Wiggly. Here's my half. Now give me yours.'" ceiling which had turned quite brown, "I always believe in a compromise."

"A compromise what?" cried everybody, including Nancy and Nick who were listening to every word.

"A compromise," repeated Mr. Ant. "That means that everybody agrees to something."

"What would you suggest?" asked Tingaling.

Mr. Ant blinked his eyes. "How would this do? Let my friends, Mr. Worm here, pay half his rents to you pay half to him."

Tingaling scratched his head in a unofficial. It is in the nature of kindly and helpful counsel. Most divorces are doubtless unnecessary.

With a little adjustment, or a better mutual understanding, the couple might patch up their differences and live together comfortably. Such a solution would, of course, be better for them, and indefinitely better for their children.

When divorce is the only solution, such a disinterested bureau is better qualified to advise it than many a lawyer into whose hands the unhappy husband or wife might fall, and whose only interest would be his fee.

Such a bureau, intelligently conducted, might cut down the number of divorces in any city 25 to 50 per cent.

INFLATING THE DOLLAR

The rise in value of the German mark, says the Frankfort Gazette, is "due to the refusal of the Germans to import luxuries."

I neither words Germans have decided to get along upon the real necessities of life, food, clothing, shelter, until their monetary unit of value approaches its pre-war standing. Germans are doing this because they must. That or financial ruin for all of them.

In the United States the dollar has become the half dollar in purchasing power. Possibly it can be boosted to its 100-cent value by denial in the matter of luxuries. Certainly the dollar may be inflated by doing so.
And, as you refuse yourself luxuries you release labor and material for the necessities.

Bear this in mind: Doubling the dollar's value is exactly the same as increasing your wages 100 per cent.

ICE-WATER.

"Ice-water, the musical tinkling of which the corridors is the most characteristic sound of the American caravaner," has long had attention of sanitarians to whom the idea naturally occurred that of the ice added to the water was impure, serious consequences would result.

In spite of the fact that ice may at times contain very considerable numbers of bacteria, only a surprisingly small number of epidemics have been charged to infected ice; and a careful examination of the reports leaves upon the student the impression that the danger of polluted ice have probably been exaggerated.

Briefly stated, the more important facts regarding ice as a vehicle of infectious disease appear to be as follows: While it is true that some individual bacteria survive exposure to freezing, and even very low temperatures, such conditions are highly unfavorable to bacteria in general, even of the same kind especially if the ex-posure be prolonged.

Out of a number of individual bacteria of any kind subjected to freezing, a large proportion usually perish, especially if they continue to be exposed to the low temperature for two or three weeks, but a small proportion survive. There is a good reason to believe that the virulence of the survivors is weakened by this exposure to low temperatures.

Ice for table use should always be handled in cleanly fashion. It is well to rinse off the cake of ice before putting it into the refrigerator, and, of course, it should always be rinsed before being used in drinking water. Still better than introducing ice directly into the drinking water is the use of water that has been cooled by ice kept in a separate container.

As a cooling drink in summer it is well to drink lead water in small sips and not overload the system with enormous quantities of water taken in large draughts.

THE BOOK OF ANN.

The case of Ann's Mother Brings Us to the Question of Divorce.

"I am loved" or "I am not loved," repeated Ann's mother. "No compromises! No nuances! Girls nowadays have wonderful clear ideas of love's values. I should think the modern girl's definiteness would rob almost any phandering husband of his joy in 'The Quest.' A man hates to have a woman see through that particular lure. When he follows the law of nature! she persists in considering him weak! That wounds him. And he hates to have his family disrupted. Man is a lot more conventional than woman, I think. He likes to be very respectable. I found that out when I procured my divorce."

I breathed hard with astonishment. Mother looked up with sudden sympathy. Chrys lit a cigarette. We had supposed that Mrs. Brest was a widow. Just taken it for granted. One couldn't imagine that a man who had loved that woman would ever risk giving her a cause for jealousy.

"I think I would better tell you my story," Ann's mother continued. Evidently she wasn't going to identify her self intimately with the Lorimers if we consider her declassée because she was a divorcee.

"Please do not tell anything which will pain you," said mother.

"It doesn't hurt any more—not a bit," replied Mrs. Brest. "You will understand that when I have finished."

"Then please tell us," said Chrys. "I'm extremely interested in the divorce question. It's going to loom large in politics some day. Our divorce laws must be changed—made uniform, you know—and equally just for men and for women."

"The political parties are not likely to make any reforms, unless women demand them," mother remarked. "But since women are the principal sufferers from divorce, they are bound to bring about reforms—now that they have the vote."

But first a lot of them have got to be educated. All those who regard a man as 'a meal ticket' have got to be put to work to support themselves. And, mother, women must get away from your pet notion that she must suffer and endure in the name of love," said Chrys. "That's perfectly absurd. It makes woman a slave. Man has taken advantage of that kind of martyrdom since the dawn of creation, and now he doesn't know when he is imposing on woman! Most of us could profit by Jane's idea. Love is—or isn't. Love is like mathematics. One minus one leaves nothing. Man seems to think it is like a worm: he can cut into small parts and each will grow into a new, complete and perfect love!"

"That's exactly what my husband pretended!" exclaimed Mrs. Brest. "He felt sure that his nature couldn't be satisfied by one heart experience. He had the artistic temperament! He felt perfectly qualified to respond to romantic pulls, and, at the same time, to love me to my satisfaction!"

"He insulted your intelligence, but was that astonishing? Wives have accepted his theory as part of their duty. They marry for better or worse you know. Women haven't ever really tried to make men live by the single moral standard."

"And so men are considered good sports if they do not lie to other men, if they do not cheat other men although they cheat a woman silly enough to permit it." This from Chrys the cynic. "And we are not going to cure that thing by vote."

"How then—if ever?" I asked. "Women must demand as much as they give. There must be fairness and squareness between men and women, just as between men who are pals."

"I suppose divorce is a lot deeper than the ballot," I ventured "it's as deep as love itself. Honest love—or none at all. When will women demand that? Not to deceive the other—not to defraud the other—that would be a perfect love, wouldn't it?"

"If men and women could live by that standard, we wouldn't require a marriage ceremony to protect the home," said mother.

THRESHERS' SUPPERS.

Editor Telegraph:—

I would like to have someone tell me the right thing to do regarding serving suppers to threshers. Some of the people in my neighborhood say they do not think it is necessary to feed the men at supper after their afternoon's work in the harvest field, helping to get the grain in the dry. I think any man who has worked in the hot field to help save his neighbor's grain is deserving of his supper, and if he doesn't get it he should quit work at 5 o'clock and go home, where he could get it. "No supper, no work after 5 o'clock." A READER.

But when robbers held up Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Whiting in Brooklyn they took $16 from Whiting, and—"They didn't get the 50 I had hid in my stocking," said Mrs. Whiting.

Willie Berger, 15 years old, Houston, Tex., married a 16-year-old girl merely "because she wanted to be a June bride." Divorced in July.

(Which proves that young people are too young to be married?)

Robert Hicks, who is 69, Kansas City, Mo., was divorced by his wife Othelia, aged 63, after 40 years of married life. She said he was a flirt and he said she was jealous.

Mrs. Samuel W. Boorstein, New York, asks for a divorce because her husband has deserted her twelve times in less than seven years of married life.

U. C. Hatfield, Chicago, is angry because his wife acquired the habit of coming home on Sundays.

The average hospital is full of human being spending a lot of good money trying to keep from dying, while—

Joseph Weller, Mifflintown, Pa., was so anxious to die that he swallowed ten carpet tacks, a handful of match heads, and some small scraps of tin, all of which was brought back to the surface by a stomach pump.

GIRL SCOUTS BEING TRAINED TO RESCUE SWIMMERS ALONG SEA

Instruction to Extend to Every Member in Entire Nation.

BY LORRY A. JACOBS,
N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.
New York.—Drownings this summer have been unfortunately numerous and for that reason the Girl Scouts organization of America has taken up the task of training every girl in its membership to save lives. More than 85,000 Girl Scouts are receiving instruction this summer. The girls are urged on in the work by the offer of 10,000 merit badges for excellence in swimming.

How Badges Are Won.
To win the merit badge, a girl must swim 50 yards, demonstrating the breast stroke and three others, swim 25 feet under water, demonstrate floating and three ways of diving, retrieve an object from a depth of eight feet, prepare and throw a life line to a person in the water 25 feet away and pull to safety, rescue a supposed drowning person, demonstrate the Schaefer method of resuscitation, swim 25 yards in clothes, skirts and boots included, and undress in water over the head. In addition, they must know how to row a boat and dive from it.

The result of this work has had its effect, for 14 girls in New York alone were awarded the bronze cross for saving life at the extreme peril of their own.

The most notable case is that of Kathryn McClusky, of Albany, N. Y., a 14-year-old girl. She and some other girls were canoeing along behind several girls engaged in long distance swimming. One of them became weak and frightened and went down.

Makes Two Dives.
Katherine dove into the water but succeeded in getting only a bathing cap. She dove deeper and found the girl's stiffened body, brought it to the top and then aided in resuscitation.

In another case Martha Taylor, 13, rescued a woman, who weighed 200 pounds. Says Gilbert Tomlinson, swimming instructor for the Girl Scouts of Greater New York:

"I teach the actual swimming, then diving, then swimming with clothes on, and finally the actual acts necessary to bringing in a struggling person who believes himself to be drowning. In teaching this I teach wrestling holds necessary and clutches. The final step is, of course, the methods of resuscitation, for which I use the Schaefer method.

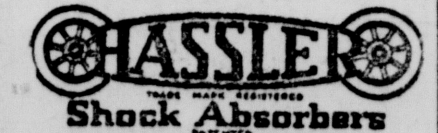

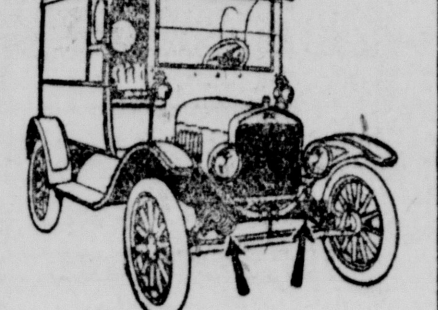

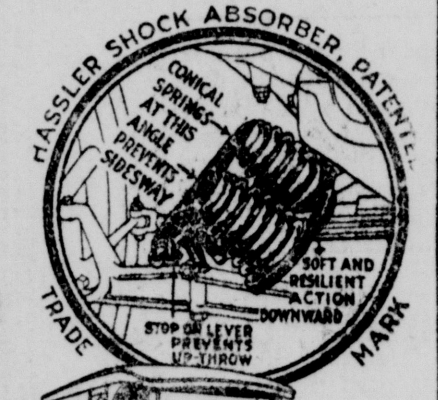

The Schaefer method is to turn the unfortunate one over on his back, and lift up and down, restoring respiration and at the same time getting rid of the water."

GAMBLING IN FOOD IS HARMFUL TO ALL

Wm. G. Eckhardt Reviews Grain Situation in Illinois.

At most any spot in rural Illinois right now, you can stand and count the smokes of half a dozen threshing crews. It is the height of threshing season and bread basket filling time. The meaning and need of stabilized markets is best demonstrated by what is happening to this grain, says the grain marketing department of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

According to the Agricultural Association, a threshing run near Springfield, in the heart of the grain belt, started work July 22. The first farm threshed 41 acres of wheat averaging 23½ bushels per acre, and it was sold to the local elevator for $2.60 per bushel. Eleven days later wheat was being threshed at the last place in the run and local elevators were offering $1.90 per bushel. This same thing is true in all threshing crews.

"Sharp fluctuation of prices on farm products is discouraging and a detriment to food production," says Wm. G. Eckhardt, Director of the Grain Marketing Department. "The wheat threshed July 22, was worth $578 more than it was eleven days later. It is as bad for consumer as it is for producers to make a gambling business of food production."

All farmers' organization in the middle-west are planning a co-operative grain marketing program which will stabilize prices.

Small-Town Problems.

BY KARL B. LOHMANN.

Town Planner, Pennsylvania State
Bureau of Municipalities.

Towns must be more than a mere collection of houses, stores and factories. They should be places in which residents can take pride and comfort, where the normal expectation is growth and development, and the proper object of such development is production of one form or another based upon healthy living conditions.

They should embrace a proper system with appropriate alignment, gradient and widths, adapted to the present and future demands of traffic. They should include parcels of land, held in advance for the public structures that must come in the life of the town. They should give recognition of the fact that no small town can expect to clinch its hold as the recreative center of the open country or as a real home town, unless there are places of play and wholesome rest, parks and playgrounds for children and adults.

Moreover, the right sort of town requires that homes must be more than mere houses. They must be attractive and convenient in character and equipment, with adequate surroundings provided, and where the districts in which they are located are not defiled by unsightly, noisy and ill-smelling industries. Our small towns must be clean—clean in air, water and drainage—clean of obstructions on the streets, of litter, poles and wires, and billboards; clean of tin cans and ashes in the yards, and trimmed up where possible with grass, flowers, shrubs and trees. We must never forget that an unclean town cannot be wholesome, healthy and attractive until it is made sanitary and clean and green.

If in such consideration as the above we discover how far and where in we have fallen short of the physical standard of the ideal for small towns, it devolves upon each of us to help lift to that standard the various features of the town.

That may be accomplished best if incorporated in some definite purpose or program. France recently passed a law compelling every town and village to lay out its future development according to principles of modern city planning—or, in other words, in some kind of definite program. Each of our towns might need that wonderful example. It is entirely possible and practical for them to do so. It is merely the application of good business principles, wherein a plan or program of action is the guide.

By working together, the town council, the city commission, the chamber of commerce, the civic improvement society, or any one of several organizations, has it in its power to make important strides in the preparation of a concrete study or ideal towards which the town should move.

In small towns where a comparatively new policy is to be inaugurated, the latter is often met with a persistent prejudice and indifference that manifests itself in misunderstanding and cross-purposes within the community. The spirit will vanish when the people fully realize that the development of healthy, efficient and self-sustaining towns, according to the best modern practices, is absolutely essential to the best development of the people within such towns and indispensable to the fullest development of our country life, and that it is to the best interests of industry and production.

What an extraordinary call such possibilities for general welfare make upon our civic conscience. It opens up an immense field of possible service wherein fairness, understanding, cordiality and community spirit must flourish and opens the way toward better towns.

THREE TIMES AS MANY DEATHS AS BIRTHS IN RUSSIA UNDER SOVIET

Duckworth Says Babies Are Conspicuous by Their Absence

Correspondent J. Herbert Duckworth entered Soviet Russia without a permit and traveled independently all over the land of the Bolsheviks—not on a Lenin tour. Lenin finally jailed him and deported him to Estonia—but he had his facts and he is now writing the truth about Russia today for readers of The Evening Telegraph. Watch for more of Duckworth's articles.

BY J. H. DUCKWORTH, N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.
Reval, Estonia.—One of the first things I noticed, after I had been in Moscow a few days, was the almost total absence of babies and little children. There must be some in Moscow, but they are apparently too weak and sickly to want to go out on the streets to play.
The following health statistics were issued by the commissariat of people's health:

	No. of deaths in every 1000	No. of births in every 1000
1911 (before the Bolshevik regime)	21%	29%
1918 (during the Bolshevik regime)	43%	15%
1919	75%	13%

These official Bolshevik figures conclusively prove, surely, that disease, starvation and a low birth rate under the Bolshevik regime, are fast wiping out the Russian people.
From what I saw and heard in Moscow of the way the Russian Communists have "solved" the housing problem, the Bolsheviks have made as much of a mess of this matter as they have of almost everything else they have meddled with.

True, every worker has now a place in which to sleep. But what is the use of a spacious apartment if you have no furniture, and nothing in the kitchen?
When the Bolsheviks first came into power a decree was issued depriving all house owners of their property. The tenants were ordered to form committees, landlords and members of their families being strictly barred from sitting on these bodies.

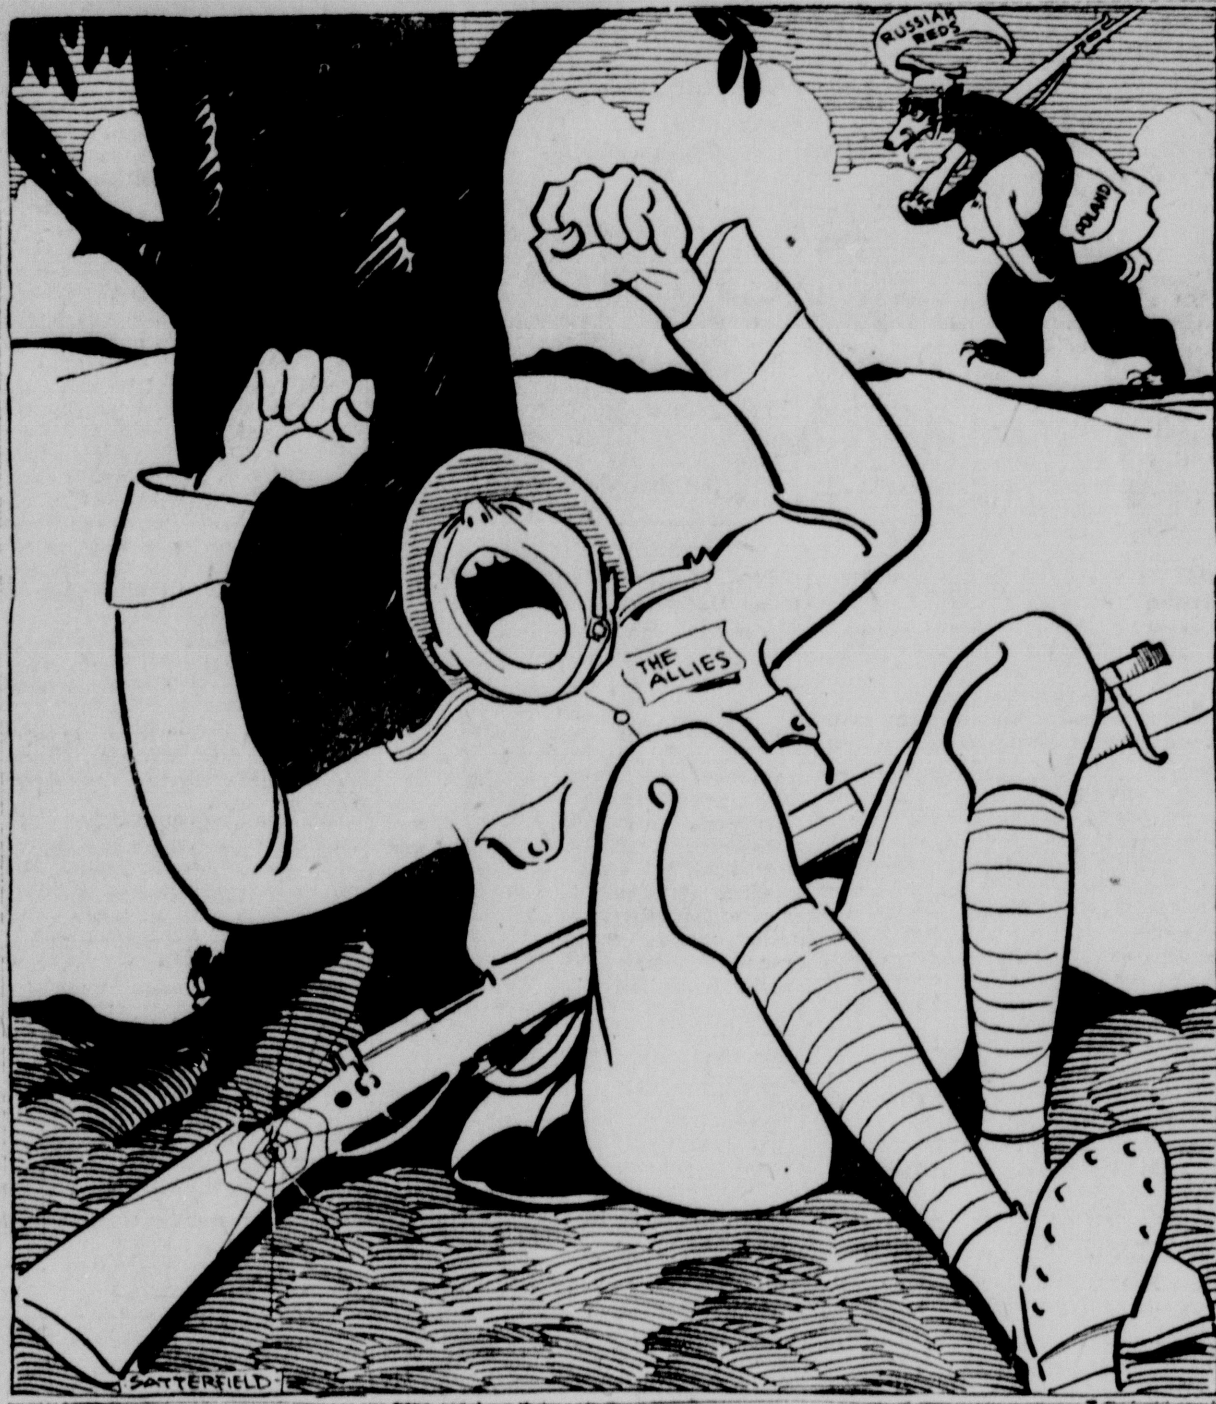

Run By Bolsheviks.
The control of houses in supposed now to be in the hands of these committees of tenants. But as a matter of fact these committees are actually controlled by local district committees—by Bolsheviks appointed by Bolsheviks. These local committees are in turn answerable to the Central Housing Council.

It is not difficult for one to agree to the proposition that nobody should go homeless while others have a dozen rooms in which to dwell.

But what has happened in Russia? The people of the better apartments have been forcibly ordered to vacate their premises and go to the slums, while the people of the poorer districts have been moved into the high-class apartments.

At first the proletariat lived in a state of luxury of a sort, for the owners of apartments were forbidden to take their furniture or belongings away with them when they were turned out. But unemployment and starvation soon forced the new tenants to barter pictures, carpets and furniture for foodstuffs with the peasants who came in from the country.

Conditions Terrible.
Now, in this topsyturvy capital of the Bolsheviks, one can see ragged and starving and miserable looking people inhabiting the former homes of the bourgeoisie.

Sanitary conditions in these big blocks of apartments are worse, if anything, than those at the farms of the peasants. All piping and sewers have long since gone out of repair.
Great care is supposed to be taken of the children of Red Russia. Yet the Bolshevik organ, Pravda, one day published a complaint that more than three hundred boys and girls were in the prisons of Moscow, many condemned to long terms of imprisonment for trifling, such as stealing bread.

Lowell, Mass.—"I was all run down and had an awful pain in my right side, was persistently constipated and had very dizzy spells. I suffered for three years and was perfectly miserable until a friend was telling me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I found it a wonderful medicine. I can now do twice as much work and I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other women. You can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. THEAL BESSEY, 186 Appleton Street, Lowell, Mass.
